2.6.21.8.2011 Of Kunsthalle Base

In truth, I don't quite know how to  $\mathsf{FN}$ begin the story I am about to tell. Let me start with this: I am real, flesh and bones, the director of Kunsthalle Basel and curator of its program. I invited Chinese artist Yan Xing to create a new body of work for his first institutional solo exhibition in Switzerland. He conceived an exhibition that includes, as one of its many elements, a displaced, unremarkable object: the ceiling lamp from above my office desk. This decision impacts my daily work for the duration of the show. You might not have noticed the lamp's curved, frosted glass cover and metal hardware, but now you know that their being in the show means they are not in my office, not lighting my way. These are facts, irrefutable and simple.

But here the story becomes complicated. Yan Xing, also of flesh and bones, has invented a fictive artist in whose exhibition, Dangerous Afternoon, you currently find yourself. Most things around you (save the real lamp of the real curator) were "made" by this fictive artist and installed by a fictive curator, whose personal tribulations haunt the exhibition. This curator, the story goes, is a devoted and happily married middle-aged man who one day falls, desperately and inconsolably, for a stranger's feet. After a period of torment during which he concedes to his desire, the curator tries to convince the stranger to let him have his way with the latter's feet. The stranger agrees, on one condition: the curator must give over his wife to the stranger for a night. A moral dilemma ensues: to consummate his desire, the curator must not only convince his wife to betray him, but convince her to do so in order that he, her husband, betray her in turn with the same man. This whirlwind of desire, torment, and duplicity, all unfolding during the preparation of the exhibition, as well as the fictive curator's degrading relationship with the artist (stemming from his distraction and paranoia), are the backstory of Dangerous Afternoon.

"I wanted to make a show about a curator undone by desire," Yan Xing declares. The result is a body of objects whose arrangement conspires to make libidinal intrigue palpable. A handful of photographs show closely cropped scenes: in one, a man is gently and lovingly engaged in cleaning the inside of another man's ear; in another, you see arms and hands (of two men?) holding a delicate potted plant. These are images of exquisite tension, printed in the inkiest black and white, some so dark that it takes a moment to decipher the image.

Dangerous Afternoon (May 20, 2017), 2017 Digital video, color, sound Ca. 180', in loop On view from June 14, 2017 on Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Inkjet print 46.4 × 56.4 × 3.5 cm, framed ROOM 3

Dangerous Afternoon (May 31, 2017),

Digital video, color, no sound Ca. 3', in loop

25

Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Leather shoes, plastic bag 28 × 38 × 25 cm

ROOM 2

17 Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Oil on canvas, paper 38 × 46 cm

18
Dangerous Afternoon, 2017
Oil on canvas
22 × 26 cm

19 Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Oil on canvas 35.2 × 46.2 cm

20 a & 20 b Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Graphite wall drawing Dimension variable 21

Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Oil on canvas 40 × 33 cm

22 Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Glass, mixed media, wood 100 × 205 × 80 cm

23 Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 River stone Dimension variable Silk cloth 40 × 40 cm

ROOM 1

Dangerous Afternoon, 2017
Iragna granite
2, each approx. 20 × 200 × 20 cm
Copper, porcupine quills
2, each approx. 94 cm long,
diameter 6 mm

Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Silver gelatine print 90.4 × 68.4 × 4 cm, framed

Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Silver gelatine print 90.4 × 68.4 × 4 cm, framed

4
Dangerous Afternoon, 2017
Silver gelatine print
70.4 × 55.4 × 4 cm, framed

5 Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Silver gelatine print 60.4 × 50.4 × 4 cm, framed

6 Dangerous Afternoon (June 1, 2017), 2017 3 laser prints Each 29.7 × 21 cm

Dangerous Afternoon, 2017
Iragna granite
2, each approx. 20 × 200 × 20 cm
Copper, porcupine quill
Approx. 94 cm long,
diameter 6 mm

8
Dangerous Afternoon (May 25, 2017),
2017
Performance traces, whistle
Dimension variable

9 Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Buffalo horn shoehorn, jade ring, leather belt, silk cloth Dimension variable

10 Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Silver gelatine print 50.8 × 60.4 × 6 cm, framed

11 Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Silver gelatine print 49.2 × 58.4 × 6 cm, framed

12
Dangerous Afternoon (May 25, 2017),
2017
Performance traces
Dimension variable

13 Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Silver gelatine print 44.4 × 37.2 × 4 cm, framed

Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 Cigarette butts, graphite, metal, sand 500 × 300 × 6.25 cm

15 Dangerous Afternoon (May 29, 2017), 2017 Glass, metal, mixed media Dimension variable

16 Dangerous Afternoon, 2017 3 river stones Dimension variable Silk cloth 40 × 40 cm

All works courtesy the artist

This tantalizing uncertainty fits the project as a whole, in which not knowing precisely what you are looking at (or where the lines between veracity and fiction are drawn) is the crucible around which the exhibition smolders.

Everything about its materiality—from the oversize white-sand-filled ashtray; to the elongated copper devices, each topped with a porcupine quill and vaguely insinuating erotic use; to an embroidered silk handkerchief; to the frames of the photographs—is refined, poised, elegant to the extreme. Yet, along the walls, scuff marks at about foot height are evidence of the stranger's attempt to taunt and humiliate the lovesick curator. During the preparation of the exhibition, the stranger ordered the curator to crawl on his hands and knees along the edges of the space, and his shoes left the scuff marks. Regardless of this humiliation, the curator placed a guardrail in one area (the type used to protect valuable artifacts in museums) as if to elevate the markings to the status of art. Another railing appears around a hanging whistle, a cipher for the stranger's domination of the curator, who allegedly—got whistled at as an order to lick a square of the exhibition's wooden floor (perhaps the very floor under your feet at this moment).

Along the walls of the main space, occasional nail holes testify to the curator's removal of the artist's original placement of certain works, suggesting indecision or rejection, a tussle during the installation. In the second space, a worktable, drawing implements, and the day's newspaper signal work in progress; across from the table, smallish gray and white Cézanne-like paintings hang near a graphite wall mural. The paintings are slightly modified copies of existing historical scenes in which the artist has, according to the paranoid delusions of the curator, discovered the latter's secret inner turmoil and depicted it. Ashamed and infuriated at being so discovered, the curator required that one of the paintings be removed from display and packed up (it stands, partially wrapped, in a corner).

Can the scenography of an exhibition expose the fraught mental and emotional life of the person installing it? Yan Xing represents his fictive curator's desire almost as if it were an object in the room, keeping erotic tension close to the surface of his entire project. The final element in the exhibition is the curator's own homemade video, recorded on his smartphone with trembling hands as he looked out the window of the very gallery in which the video is now shown. It is evidence of the fleeting, arranged meeting between his wife and the stranger whose feet he desires.

The two protagonists of the curator's emotional drama meet and quickly walk off together on that "dangerous" afternoon.

If Dangerous Afternoon propels us into its story's uncertain, imagined future, it also includes clues for how its stage was set. Unavailable to visitors of the exhibition when the show opens, a several-hours-long film premieres on June 14, 2017, documenting a dinner for seven distinguished guests held several weeks before the show opened. They share an intimate repartee (the extent to which their tales are authentic or scripted remains unclear). One of them, the "stranger," reveals how he met and received an illicit proposal by a local curator of an exhibition then about to open, as well as the stranger's secret plans for him. No one believes his story, but in it lies a key to unraveling the complex narrative underlying the entire project.

Remember the office lamp? Like a hand that suddenly brushes yours in a movie theater while you are thoroughly engrossed in watching a film, the lamp—my lamp—is a bit of the real puncturing the elaborate and convoluted artifice of the exhibition. And if everywhere in the exhibition the boundary between the artificial and the actual is deliberately muddled, this muddle is the very substance of Yan Xing's practice. Across his body of work—comprised of installation, performance, photography, sculpture, and video fact and speculation, public and private, art object and display structure touch and blur. And fantastical backstories often take root. This exhibition is no exception. Here one artist's oeuvre insinuates itself into another (invented) artist's oeuvre, one curator's work insinuates itself into another (invented) curator's work, and indeed fiction insinuates itself into truth—and vice versa. "Truth" is thus built up promiscuously, resplendently, only to be dissolved again.

-Elena Filipovic

Yan Xing was born in 1986 in Chongqing, CHN; he lives and works in Beijing and Los Angeles, USA.

The exhibition will be followed by the publication of a catalogue including newly commissioned texts and installation views, supported by the H2 Foundation for Arts and Education.

The exhibition is generously supported by LUMA Foundation and Jackson Tang, with additional support by Davidoff Art Initiative.

Thanks to

Kurt Aeschbacher, Denise Baltensperger, Hallam Chow, Tobias Dengler, Jacqueline Dubach, Lothar von Falkenhausen, Andy Gillet, Hans-Kristian Hoejsgaard, Maja Hoffmann, Carlos Jaico Carranza, Nicole Kaufmann, Johannes Keller, Albertine Kopp, Li Zexin, Liu Hong, Lorenzo Montagnani, Hans Ulrich Obrist, Esther de Pommery, Binia Roth, Sven Rufer, Barbara Schellewald, Markus Schinwald, Irène Speiser, Jackson Tang, and Benjamin Weiss

GUIDED TOURS THROUGH THE EXHIBITION

Every Sunday at 3 pm guided tour, in German

11.6.2017, Sunday, 3 pm Curator's tour, in English 29.6.2017, Thursday, 6:30 pm 17.8.2017, Thursday, 6:30 pm Guided tour, in English

EDUCATION / PUBLIC PROGRAMS

Kunsthalle Basel Night
14.7.2017, Wednesday, 7–10 pm
Premiere of Yan Xing's new film, with performative interventions,
and extended opening hours

Kunsthalle ohne Schwellen

7. – 13.8.2017, workshops for disabled people
In each all-day workshop, participants explore the current exhibitions and try out different forms of artistic expression. Information under and by reservation only:
kunstvermittlung@kunsthallebasel.ch

In the Kunsthalle Basel library you will find an associative selection of publications related to Yan Xing's artistic practice.

Follow us on Facebook and Instagram and share your photos and impressions with #kunsthallebasel. More information at kunsthallebasel.ch

Yan Xing ist 1986 in Chongqing (CN) geboren. Er lebt und arbeitet in Los Angeles (USA) und Peking. Yan Xing is born 1986 in Chongqing, (CN). He lives and works in Los Angeles (USA) and Beijing.

AUSBILDUNG / EDUCATION

2009 B.A., Oil Painting Department, Sichuan Fine Arts Institute, Chongging (CN)

EINZELAUSSTELLUNGEN (AUSWAHL) / SOLO SHOWS (SELECTION)

- 2016 Video Bureau, Guangzhou (CN)
  - Yan Xing, Eli and Edythe Broad Art Museum, Michigan State University, East Lansing (USA)
  - Nuit et brouillard, Galerie Urs Meile, Lucerne (CH)
  - Performance of a Massacre, Stedelijk Museum Amsterdam
- 2015 Thief, Galerie Urs Meile, Beijing
  - Why are we going to Brunei?, Kadist Art Foundation, San Francisco (USA)
- 2014 Standard Exhibition, Galerie Urs Meile, Lucerne (CH)
- 2013 Recent Works, Galerie Urs Meile, Beijing
- 2012 Yan Xing, Chinese Arts Centre, Manchester (GB)
- 2011 REALISM, Galerie Urs Meile, Beijing

GRUPPENAUSSTELLUNGEN (AUSWAHL) / GROUP SHOWS (SELECTION)

- 2017 The Man Who Never Threw Anything Away, Times Museum, Guangzhou (CN)
- Annual Exhibition of Contemporary Chinese Art, Beijing Minsheng Art Museum.
   Travelled to Art Museum of Sichuan Fine Arts Institute, Chongqing (CN), 2016; and Modern Art Museum Jiangsu, Nanjing (CN), 2016
  - Son: Signal of Authority, inCube Arts, New York (USA)
  - Sui Generis, Tenuta Dello Scompiglio, Capannori (IT)
  - De leur temps 5: Le temps de L'audace et de l'engagement, Institut d'Art Contemporain, Villeurbanne (FR)
- 2015 Public, Art Basel Miami Beach, Collins Park, Miami (USA)
  - Teetering at the Edge of the World, Espacio de Arte Contemporáneo, Montevideo, 3rd Ural Industrial Biennial of Contemporary Art, Iset Hotel, Yekaterinburg (RU)
  - Essential Matters: Moving Images from China, Borusan Contemporary, Istanbul (TR)
  - Strangelove: Moving Image Festival, Central Saint Martins, London University of the Arts
  - Film, Art Basel Hong Kong, agnès b. cinema, Hong Kong Arts Centre, Hong Kong
  - Chercher le garçon, Musée d'Art Contemporain du Val-de-Marne, Vitry-sur-Seine (FR) Traveling Alone, Tromsø Kunstforening, Tromsø (NO)
- 2014 Kabinett, Art Basel Miami Beach, Miami Beach Convention Center, Miami, (USA)
  - Another Leap, Power Station of Art, Shanghai (CN)
  - 2nd China Onscreen Biennial, UCLA Film and Television Archive; REDCAT; Pomona College, Los Angeles, CA (USA); Freer Gallery of Art and Arthur M. Sackler Gallery, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C.
  - My Generation: Young Chinese Artists, Tampa Museum of Art, Tampa (USA). Travelled to Oklahoma City Museum of Art, Oklahoma City (USA), 2014; Orange County Museum of Art, Newport Beach (USA), 2015,
  - The 8 of Paths, Uferhallen, Berlin
  - 15 Years Chinese Contemporary Art Award, Power Station of Art, Shanghai (CN)
  - Les rencontres internationales, Gaîté Lyrique, Paris; Haus der Kulturen der Welt, Berlin

Pressebilder / Press Images

Yan Xing, Installationsansicht Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017. Foto: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, installation view Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017. Photo: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, Installationsansicht Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017.

Foto: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

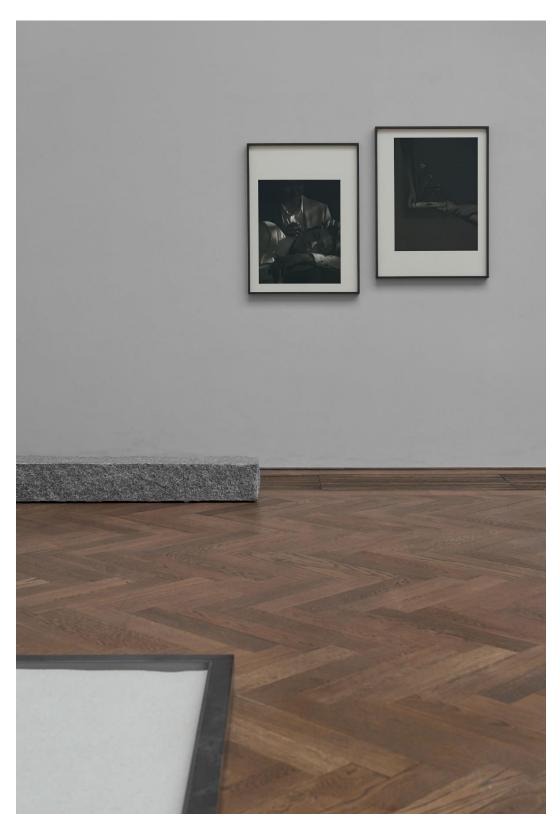

Yan Xing, installation view Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017.

Photo: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, Installationsansicht Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017. Foto: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, installation view Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017.

Yan Xing, installation view Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017. Photo: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, installation view Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017. Photo: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, installation view Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017.

Photo: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, Installationsansicht Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017. Foto: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, installation view Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017.

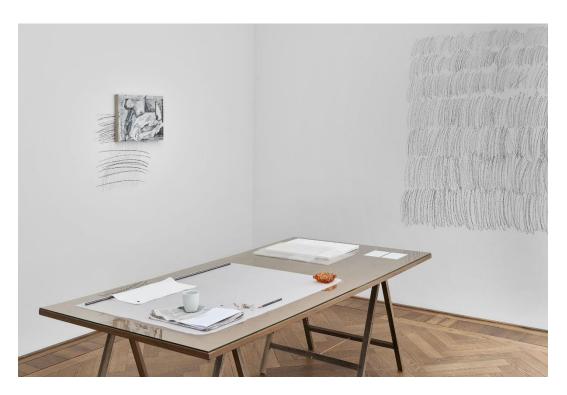

Yan Xing, installation view Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017.

Photo: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, Installationsansicht Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017. Foto: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, installation view Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017.

Yan Xing, installation view Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017. Photo: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, Installationsansicht Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017. Foto: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, installation view Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017.

Yan Xing, Installationsansicht Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017.

Foto: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Yan Xing, installation view Dangerous Afterooon, Kunsthalle Basel, 2017.

Photo: Philipp Hänger/Kunsthalle Basel

Alle Werke Courtesy Yan Xing / All works courtesy Yan Xing

Claudio Vogt, Kunsthalle Basel, Steinenberg 7, CH-4051 Basel Tel. +41 61 206 99 11, press@kunsthallebasel.ch